Patricia A. Ritter

MAR 31, 1929 - MAR 31, 2011

Patricia A. Ritter, age 82 of Batesville and formerly of Indianapolis, died Thursday, March 31, 2011 at St. Andrew's Health Campus in Batesville. Born November 30, 1928 in Elkhart, Indiana, she is the daughter of Velva (Nee: Stocker) and Everett Ritter. She was a nurse and served as a Professor of Nursing at DePauw University for 30 years. Pat enjoyed many interests in her free time. She was a fan of football and baseball, an avid reader, liked spending time outdoors and loved opera as well as classical music. She was tough in the classroom and pushed you to excel. Sometimes conversations with her would test ones' patience as Pat was very analytical as she listened to your questions and could be equally analytical with her responses. Visitation is Monday, April 4th, from 11 a.m. until noon at the funeral home. Funeral services follow at noon with Rev. Robin Owen officiating. Burial will be in Cliff Hill Cemetery at Versailles, Indiana. Memorials may be made to the Welcome Home Ministry.

Pat was my favorite instructor, both professionally and personally. I remain an expert in psychology due to her wisdom. Although challenging academically, she was a champion for those most vulnerable, advocating without enabling. She was never afraid to be assertive, and I still credit her example with my ability to navigate as a peer with others in the medical profession. She also was not hesitant to lend an ear and advice for personal issues. She helped me extract from an unhealthy relationship and kept clear strategies for a no-nonsense approach to limit setting! In later years Pat seemed so happy to visit and share her knowledge in whatever context I was pursuing. She will always live on through me and those I am able to advocate for!
